Food for Others

2938 Prosperity Avenue
Fairfax, VA 22031
<http://www.foodforothers.org/receive.html>
703-207-9173
Fax: 703-207-9204

Food for Others distributes food in the following ways:

Referrals for Emergency Food

Families with a referral from a social service provider or agency, including social worker, clergy, hospital, or school for emergency food can receive three to five days' worth of free food. Food for Others will accept up to six emergency food referrals per family each year. Each referral must be sent to Food for Others via FAX (703-207-9204). Once received, the referrals are kept on file for two weeks as the intent is to provide food for an emergency only.

United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Supplements Program

The USDA food is provided to Food for Others by the U.S. government. No food substitutions are allowed. Families may return once per calendar month for USDA food packages. USDA packages are based on the size of the household. Recipients must be Virginia residents and meet financial guidelines stated on the application form (provided in Spanish and English). It is the family's responsibility to report changes of address, household members, and income level if they occur during the year.
